DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 3, 8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Applicants have amended claim 3 with the phrase "19 wt.%" and specificational basis was not found. Similarly, claim 8 and the phrase "4 wt%" and claim 10 with the phrase "3.5 wt.%"

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2 is indefinite because there is no antecedent basis for the phrase "the pH of the process medium."

The scope of claims 3, 4, 8, 18 and 19 is unknown because the scope of the term "substantially" is indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-10, 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Newsletter of the Bayside Brewers Club (<http://www.home.aone.net.au/bbc/bbcmay.html>, pages 1-7, May 1996)("Bayside") in light of Haas Products & Applications (http://www.john-i-haas.com/products/getinfo_products.htm?prod=isohop)("Products").

Bayside teaches the addition of ISOHOP to the wort prior to fermentation (page 2). Applicants' Example 5 uses ISOHOP as the hop ingredient of their invention. Therefore, said hop ingredient claim limitations are inherently met by the prior art use of ISOHOP. Bayside does not teach the addition of ISOHOP in a continuous manner. Case law holds that courts have held that those in the art are motivated in the art to convert batch processes to continuous process by well known means. In re Korpi, 73 U.S.P.Q. 229 (1947). Therefore, it would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art to modify the teachings of Bayside so that the addition of the ISOHOP is continuous.

Products has been cited to show that which is inherent to the ISOHOP composition, i.e., it is an aqueous alkaline solution of potassium salts of iso-alpha acids standardized to 30% w/w.

Claims 11, and 14-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicants' admissions (pages 2-4) in view of Products.

Applicants admit that "[s]ome distilleries [use hop acids] to control bacteria problems." Further, the hops are converted to isoalpha acids by boiling the hops. Applicant does not admit that hop acids added are alkali salts of hop acids.

Product teaches that above, and which is notoriously well known about Isohop. Applicant is adding what is regarded as a well known preservative, i.e., hops, for its art recognized benefit, i.e., controlling bacteria. It would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art to add the Isohop of Haas as the bacterial control agent in a yeast fermentation process as admitted by applicant. Further, the addition point of the hops is considered to be obvious, i.e., added before the fermentor and yeast growing tanks. With respect to said order, selection of any order of performing process steps is prima facie obvious in the absence of new or unexpected results. In re Burhans, 154 F.2d 690, 69 USPQ 30 (CCPA 1946). Selection of any order of mixing ingredients is prima facie obvious. In re Gibson, 5 USPQ 230 (CCPA 1930).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 03/15/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. See comments above.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

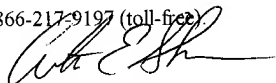

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
